

WRITTEN MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

Wednesday 29 October 2014

MINISTRY OF JUSTICE

Ministry of Justice Update

The Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State for Justice (Chris Grayling):

Today the Government took another major step forward in delivering its important reforms to rehabilitation services, announcing Preferred Bidders for 21 Community Rehabilitation Company contracts. The competition for contracts was strong, with over 80 bids received and an average of four bidders in each area.

I have placed a copy of the list of Preferred Bidders in the House Libraries today. You will see that we have a strong and diverse market, with Preferred Bidders in all but one of the 21 contract areas including voluntary and social sector organisations as ‘top tier’ partners in their bids (the other Preferred Bidder is a medium-sized British business). Four probation staff mutuals are also represented as top tier partners.

Ministry of Justice Update

The Minister of State for Civil Justice and Legal Policy (Lord Faulks QC):

My right honourable friend the Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State for Justice (Chris Grayling) has made the following Written Ministerial Statement.

“Today the Government took another major step forward in delivering its important reforms to rehabilitation services, announcing Preferred Bidders for 21 Community Rehabilitation Company contracts. The competition for contracts was strong, with over 80 bids received and an average of four bidders in each area.

I have placed a copy of the list of Preferred Bidders in the House Libraries today. You will see that we have a strong and diverse market, with Preferred Bidders in all but one of the 21 contract areas including voluntary and social sector organisations as ‘top tier’ partners in their bids (the other Preferred Bidder is a medium-sized British business). Four probation staff mutuals are also represented as top tier partners.”
